PREFACE FROM THE CONFERENCE CHAIR

Research and publishing opportunities for academics and researchers Asia Pacific Institute of Advanced Research (APIAR) strives to assist academics and researchers to build on their theoretical and practical knowledge in their respective fields, and to provide updates of the latest breakthroughs and innovations as well as current practices. The Institute focuses both on continuous research and publications in four primary domains: Business, Education, Information Technology and Social Sciences.

Connecting academics / researchers and business practitioners who share similar research interests, the Institute acts as a platform for collaboration on joint research publications. This initiative ensures that the research findings are in line with technological advances, the market environment, and with the most contemporary business practices and trends. This integrated approach between disciplines is significant as the implications and application of research findings are applied in different contexts. Managers and practitioners can apply the new knowledge and research findings in solving various businesses challenges and in strengthening their overall business strategy, relating it, for example, to sales, marketing, branding, operation and logistics, human resources and technology. APIAR brings together a diverse network of academics, researchers, business practitioners and entrepreneurs to share their extensive experience and critical knowledge through the conference platform and through research publications such as academic journals.

The value of the Institute's rigorous reviewing process:

The APIAR's extensive system of review processes towards publication reflects the Institute's desire to provide the highest-quality research literatures and findings that are up-to-date, meaningful, feasible and appropriate to current business practice. The rigorous reviewing process is crucial in upholding the credibility and reputation of the published work, and therefore of the Institute itself. APIAR drives on quality knowledge-sharing and knowledge-develop-ment, not only to create efficient learning but also to offer effective solutions to the academic and business environment. The overall process also enhances innovation and revitalises new ideas.

Why academic should publish with us:

As our institution is relatively new, we place emphasis on building a strong institution brand and on raising awareness of our activities. Our key focus is to provide advanced research for higher education and corporate training through a team of highly-qualified academics and business practitioners to reinforce the institution's value in terms of both theoretical knowledge and practice. We strongly encourage researchers and research students to publish through our institution, ensuring that the process towards publication is straightforward with full details given on the APIAR website. We also provide a platform for networking, and opportunities for project collaboration. Most importantly, to expand knowledge in the primary domains of Business, Education, Information Technology and Social Sciences.
